Eisenhower Won't Attend NATO Parley

Pact Nations Will Decide Whether To Hold Conference

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (A) -President Eisenhower will not attend the NATO summit conference at Paris next month and there is a possibility the conference may be postponed

The State Department said "it is to be assumed" the President will not go and the White House later said this is a safe assump-

The United States has put up to the other 14 Atlantic Treaty countries the question whether they want to go ahead with a conference of heads of government and a decision is expected within the next day or so

If the decision is to hold a summit session on schedule officials predicted tonight Vice President Richard Nixon would be designated by Eisenhower to attend. If the decision is to postpone the top level meeting perhaps until next would certainly be held in place of the summit conference.

Nixon Says Ike Capable Of Decisions

No Presidential Power Delegation Deemed Necessary

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26 (A) Vice President Nixon said today that President Eisenhower, despite his illness, "is fully capable" of making any decision needed.

Nixon told a pressing throng of reporters at the White House that there has been no thought of delegating presidential powers to him or anyone else in the Cabinet.

He said he and other members of Eisenhower's Cabinet had been informed by Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers that no delegation of presidential authority was necessary How did Rogers reach this deci-

every line

You can see at a glance the Edsel goes its own way to set a new standard of elegance. But to really know the Edsel you must drive it.

The Edsel is powered by the newest, most advanced V-8 engines in the world - the E-400 and the E-475. Their specifications: 400 and 475 foot-pounds of torque; 303 and 345 horsepower. You have never handled this kind of usable power before.

With Edsel's exclusive Teletouch

Drive, you lightly touch a button on the steering wheel hub and Teletouch Drive does the rest—smoothly, surely, electrically. Only in an Edsel can you shift with both hands at the wheel.

What does an Edsel cost? Edsel prices range from just above the lowest to just below the highest. You can afford an Edsel. And you can choose from four series—18 models. See and drive the newest car in the world-at your Edsel Dealer this week.

Awaiting you at your Mercury dealer's is a car that, in many ways, makes driving a new experience. Here are four examples:

Big new brakes that adjust themselves automatically!

Mercury's new brakes are self-adjusting for the life of the brake lining. They automatically adjust for lining wear during the course of your daily driving-save time and cost of frequent brake adjustments.

A chime that warns you when you exceed the speed limit.

Mercury offers a Speed-limit Safety Monitor which can be set at any desired speed. A warning chime sounds when this speed is reached - saves having to watch the speedometer.

A power feature that automatically lubricates your car every time you start it.

Mercury offers you power lubrication. It works automatically whenever you start the engine, or push a button on the dash. And each lubrication costs less than one-half cent —cuts down on trips to the service station.

A separate push-button that gives you engine braking on down-hill grades.

The Ugly Spiral Finally Stops

Secretary of Labor James P. Mitchell has some good news for the nation's consumers. The inflationary spiral, in his opinion, has run out of steam. The upsurge in living costs, which has carried prices to a record high, has come to an end and he expects little change in prices during the months ahead.

If this is welcome news, the picture is not all peaches and cream. Price stability, like nearly everything worthwhile, must be paid for in some coin. In this case some of the bloom is

The smaller capital investment planned for new production facilities, the decrease in overtime worked, and the lowered margin of profit in many businesses all bear witness to this fact. Moreover, Mitchell has warned the country to expect a decline in employment early in 1958. This is an unpleasant bill to pay for price stability and unpleasant is not a strong enough word for those who are hit hardest. The $64 million question is whether the readjustment will be limited to a flattening out of prices and a comparatively minor drop in employment.

Mitchell believes the readjustment will be mild for the country as a whole. The level of employment and business activity is still very high. The watchdogs of the economy are alert and ready to take action at the first signs that the threat of inflation is being supplanted by that Balancing the economy between these two opposing forces is a difficult and delicate job. If Mitchell is right, the first goal has been achieved and the rise in prices which has been under way steadily has finally been checked. The next move indicated is to ease up on the brakes sufficiently to keep business rolling without sending prices spiraling upward again.

That Extra Line

When a business has an extra expense, such as hiring another 50 clerks to make out detailed expense accounts for income tax purposes, it adds the cost to the price. Thus, the inflation is accelerated by bureau-

The small man, who cannot afford to hire a lot of accountants and to whom it is unbearably difficult to sit down each night to itemize 15 for a bus fare; $1.85 for five gallons of gasoline; $1.80 for two cocktails. one for the customer with whom he had to drink maybe

All right, so this was his experience over 20 years of spending about the same amount every day for getting business. So he charged himself an average of $10 a day for business expenses and he deducted that on his income tax return.

Now he has to write it all down in detail. When he buys a drink for a customer, he must pull out his little black book and note the drink, the cost of the drink, where it was drunk, what time of the day it was drunk and maybe why he drank it.

When he is through with all this each evening, he is psychologically an unfit man. He is sore at the world. He is antagonistic to everybody because he can't remember where that $1.35 went to. He can only account for $8.65 of expenses and he knows he racked a $10.00 bill. Maybe he bought a toy for a

The small man is being driven daft by his tax problems. He knows that governments need money but he wants to know why there are so many who get away without paying taxes. Some Congressional Committee ought to get together a list of all the categories of Americans who are exempt from income tax payments altogether; a list of tax havens should be published and how many individual Americans and American companies have taken advantage of them.

Does the American government know the names of Americans who are not paying taxes because they are legally tax-exempt? Is the American who lives and works and spend his money within the United States to be penalized in favor of Americans who live outside the United States? What about that colony of rich American Communists who live in Mexico City, do they pay full income taxes? What about the rich American movie colonies in Rome and in Spain and elsewhere in Europe, do they pay full income taxes?

What is the withholding tax on American dividends which is charged to Americans living in the United States, or to Europeans living in the United States who carry their accounts through Swiss and Venezuelan banks? These parasites live on the rest of us who do pay taxes. What are the obligations of accountants who make up tax returns which contain gimmicks for the legitimate evasion of taxes, which fancy lawyers call tax avoidance to salve their consciences?

When an accountant certifies to the truth of a financial statement, does he include a sworn description of the tax evasion and tax avoidance gimmicks in the statement? Is it completely honest to leave out such details? Is it beneficial to the United States? Does it represent a fair shake for the fellow who year in and year out pays through the nose for a lot of boondoggling bureaucrats who crawl over each other Washington and elsewhere and let the Russians put two Sputniks while they battled each other as to who should do what?

Am I sore? Are you? It is bad enough to have to pay so much in taxes; it is bad enough to have to pay such an unjust and inequitable tax as the income tax: it is bad enough to know that other Americans have found a way to avoid and evade tax payments by lawful devices-do we have to suffer a punitive system of collection that makes for every kind of personal hardship and additional

When a tax becomes so onerous in its method of collection that resentment mounts upon resentment, in a free society that tax will and must be abolished; in an autocratic or oligarchic society, it leads to revolution. It would seem that the Internal Revenue Bureau is aiming to have the income tax abolished by public demand.

The new law also orders the commission to "study and collect information concerning legal developments constituting a denial of equal protection of the laws under the Constitution." The commission is also required to "appraise the laws and policies of the federal government with respect to equal protection of the laws under the

Here is an investigation into "legal developments" which is to be conducted by an Executive commission, with subpoena powers analogous to those of an investigating committee of Congress. Is it within the bounds of legal propriety for a former justice of the Supreme Court to sit in retrospective judgment on the wisdom of the ruling of the Supreme Court itself of which he was a member when it declared that separate educational facilities are for psychological reasons

"inherently unequal"? Certainly this issue becomes a pertinent subject for study by the new commission, for it is just possible that an impartial board or commission in its appraisal of "the laws and policies of the federal government with respect to equal protection of the laws under the Constitution" might be confronted with evidence or testimony leading to the conclusion that separate facilities in public schools could be equal and that only state laws and not federal laws were involved in the segregation controversy.

They defended the Administration, argued that the situation was not as dangerous as it seemed, that the Russian Sputnik had no defensive implications, and that the United States couldn't have got ahead any faster even had it spent extra money.

However, even they had a hard time defending the second amazing revelation, namely that the Defense Department had known five months in advance that Russia was going to launch its Sputnik yet didn't let the Army put its six satellites at Huntsville, Ala., into the air

Existence of these six satellites was first reported in this column on Oct. 25. The Congressmen, going to Huntsville after they finished quizzing Defense officials in Washington, saw these satellites, declared they were no figment of a newsman's imagination. The Army has now been given the green light to launch

Men And The Moon

Dr. Edward Teller, father of the H-bomb, has recommended flatly against building a moon rocket as a "scientific stunt." Called in by the White House to review the moon rocket proposals, he decided none of them looked promising enough to justify the expense, suggested holding up construction of a moon rocket until more basic research problems are solved.

This appears to put Teller in about the same position as Dr. Robert Oppenheimer, who was denied a government security clearance because he hung back against producing the hydrogen bomb. Teller testified against Oppenheimer.

Meanwhile, the Russians have already built several rockets which they expect to shoot to the moon. This will give them another head start in the race into

Meanwhile also, the State Department still hasn't given the chief Russian moon expert, Professor A. D. Alexandrov, final

He has been extremely frank with American scientists, but though visiting in Canada in October, could not come to the USA because the State Department forgot about the request

Under the circumstances, Mr. Eurich doesn't want to risk the embarrassment of extending the invitation and then having Russia's top moon expert be vetoed by the State Department.

Echoes Of War

By Bob Considine

WARSAW, Nov. 26 (INS)-The hand of World War II still lies heavily on the capital of this wavering peoples' democracy. A block from the tip-toeing residence of Cardinal Wyszynski is ar area of ruined buildings whose drunken and neglected walls are held upright by their rain stained plaster. The Warsaw Opera House is still being repaired, more than 12 years after the last bomb fell. The residence of Bishop Chormainsky where Cardinal Ratti, lat. Pope Pius XI, lived as the first apostolic delegate to Poland between 1917 and 1920, presents an ugly brown face ravaged by the smallpox of shrapnel. At the city's best hotel, the Bristol, stoutly defended by one resident correspondent as the "world's worst hotel, no matter what anybody says or whatever other claims are made," there is only sporadic hot water. People sit in its browned out lobby in an attitude that souls consigned to Limbe must adopt

Yet, curiously, it is a gaver place that the great and confident Mecca of the Communist world, Moscow. At least to the Western eye and ear it is gayer.

Perry Como suddenly began singing on our radio as we started writing this piece. What a beautiful voice he has! For a full week in Moscow, during the 40th anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution, great bull-voiced loud speakers in the square outside our room boomed only martial airs and vigorous polkas. The only American music selected during that period was a medley from that smash Broadway hit, "Rose luncheon, even though it was free. In this same terminal, three years ago, Hearst, Conniff and Kingsbury Smith, en route out of Russia, heard a Russian broadcast of their interview with Khrushchev. This day we went through, the radio that blared in the dining room contented itself with a Chinese soap opera. Plainly this expedition needed Smith.

Still, they somehow knew. A terminal guard in uniform asked Fliegers in Russian: "What kind of a man is Khrushchev?" and the moment after we had been seated in the dining room a finelooking Border Patrol officer came in, looked at us, called over the waiter and whispered to him at some length, and marched out. It was about as subtle as the squeaky-shoed guy who had followed us in Prague, looking elaborately indifferent. But it's inter-

Yes. Minor surgical procedures (punch operations) relieve symptoms for several years but results are not permanent. It is for this reason that some urologists recommend complete removal of the gland when obstruction occurs earlier in life.

By REX THOMAS

AUBURN, Ala., Nov. 26 (P)-Undefeated Auburn, a rugged team with the best defensive record in ege football this year, was acclaimed the nation's No. 1 squad

The Tigers, victorious in 9 games this year and 13 in a row, climbed to the top in the semifinal Associated Press poll ahead of once-beaten Ohio State and fumbling Michigan State, last week's

Buckeyes Are Second

The Rose Bowl-bound Buckeyes moved into second place and the Spartans dropped from first to third after their ragged performance against Kansas State last Saturday.

Coach Ralph Jordan, blessed with a depth of power unheard of a few short years ago, has been able to use his second and third teams about 60 per cent of the playing time, keeping the first string rested and ready.

Jordan attributes the Tigers' success to that strategy. "If the first team played all the way, he explained, "they'd have tired out and our opponents would have

The bidding

East	South	West	North
1 club	Pass	Pass	Double
Pass	1 heart	Pass	2 hear
Pass	3 hearts	Pass	4 hear
Double	Pass	Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Five of clubs.

When a defender holds high cards behind the opponent's high cards, he usually is best advised to play a passive defense, because all finesses must be taken into his hand. However, when either dummy or declarer has a long side su which can be established for discards, the waiting game must be replaced by drastic action. Observe East's awareness of this factor in today's hand.

Bidding was normal. After South's response to the take-out double. North contented himself with a single raise, because his partner might have little or nothing. Observe that East wisely refrained from further competition after his partner was unable to keep one club open. When the enemy got to game however, East eagerly doubled, believing his cards were well placed for defensive purposes.

East won the opening club lead with the king, and inasmuch as he held tenace positions over dummy in spades and diamonds it would have been the course of least resistance to get out with a trump and wait. But the five card diamond suit in dummy loomed as a threat. East realized that declarer could establish several tricks in the suit by yielding to the ace and queen and that defensive spade tricks would not materialize. The one hope for the defense was that declarer held three spades, in which case one trick in that suit might be developed if East acted with haste.

(Copyright 1957: The Chicago Tribune) The five of spades was therefore queen in dummy but could not subsequently avoid the loss of one spade and two diamond tricks, in addition to the club, for when he attacked the diamond suit by leading toward the jack, East won with the queen and returned a spade, establishing a trick in that suit.

THE NEW "TEW"-This is a sketch of the new "TEW" (tactical early warning) radar system developed for the U.S. Marines by Sperry Gyroscope. It promises to extend the nation's tactical defense perimeter. The new long range, search-and-height-finding radar will detect either close-in or distant high-speed enemy aircraft and missiles. The radome can be heated or cooled, and rests on a self-contained "pallet." Thus it can be transported swiftly by air. It can be operated by one man. Signals picked up by the rotating antenna are passed through the radome console to a combat interceptor and control shed. There, range, (International) azimuth and altitude are determined.

Future Hope Is Emphasized At Dedication

Ceremonies Held At New School

A hope that the children of Bowman's Addition, who pass through the classes of the new $400,000 Northeast Elementary School, will help kindle the fire which will keep the American way of life a thing of reality was expressed at the school's formal dedication last night.

City Auditor Arthur B. Gibson, principal speaker at the dedication ceremonies, expressed this

The speaker stressed that recent world events have emphasized the importance of scientific education. He said that America must have men of science in order to produce the necessary tools of destruction. He prayed that it might never be necessary to unleash this destructive power. He expressed grave doubts that man could survive another war.
